THE COMMONWEAL BRAND

Commonweal magazine, founded in 1924, is the oldest independent lay Catholic journal of opinion in the United States. Since its founding the magazine has been liberal in temperament, opinionated and engaged, but tolerant in tone, prioritizing discussion over sectarianism.

The fall of 2019 marks Commonweal’s ninety-fifth year of publication. That’s no minor milestone, especially in an age where readers increasingly look to their screens rather than the page for news and information. Yet for Commonweal, the print magazine remains essential to the Commonweal brand: serving as the forum for civil, reasoned debate on the interaction of faith with contemporary politics and culture.

And now that Commonweal is closing in on a century of publication, we’ve decided to freshen up the magazine’s look. Beginning with the September 2019 issue, we’re rolling out a newly redesigned Commonweal — featuring a clean, updated layout with distinctive signatures for each section; a richer format allowing for more imaginative use of photography and art; and more pages in every issue.

In addition to looking better, each issue of Commonweal will have more of the opinion, analysis, and criticism that readers rely on us for. Publication frequency will also be changing. Starting with the September issue, subscribers will receive eleven issues a year — one every month, save for a summer double issue in July/August.

Though we’re changing the number of issues, we’re not cutting back on the amount of content. The redesigned Commonweal will feature more articles, more essays, more reviews — as well as cover stories and thematic issues that launch larger, long-term conversations on the ideas and topics that Commonweal readers care about.

With a new look and expanded content, each issue of Commonweal will engage readers throughout the month. They’ll be spending more time with their copies, which translates into more exposure for your message. What’s more, new ad sizes and placements will enhance the impact of your creative.

The reimagined Commonweal — a better reader experience, a better advertiser medium.

SPECIAL FEATURES
Throughout the year, Commonweal offers issues on topics that are of special interest to our readers. These issues provide a unique opportunity to advertise in our most widely read and shared issues.

Theology and Higher Education Issue:
October 2019
This issue, which is widely circulated to theology teachers and students on university campuses, covers important topics in the study of religion and the purpose of higher education.

Christmas Critics Issue:
December 2019
In this issue, notable contributors to Commonweal recommend favorite books to readers looking to fill out their gift lists. An opportunity to promote books and other gifts for the holiday season.

Fiction Issue:
July – August 2020
This issue features the debut each year of a new short story. Past contributors have included Liam Callanan, Alice McDermott, Valerie Sayers, and Rand Richards Cooper.

Fall Books Issue:
November 2019
An annual issue dedicated to literary topics, this issue reviews some of the season’s most significant new books.

Spring Books Issue:
May 2020
This issue features reviews of some of the season’s most significant new books, plus essays on other literary subjects. Past issues have featured Alice McDermott on the faith of a Catholic novelist and Christian Wiman on poetry and belief.
Each episode of The Commonweal Podcast features a mix of interviews, profiles, and compelling conversations on topics at the intersection of politics, religion, and culture. Hosted by Commonweal editor Dominic Preziosi, and featuring the magazine’s editors and contributing writers, the podcast takes readers beyond the pages of the latest issue to shed fresh light on the news, books, movies, music, and political developments spurring debate and deserving of reflection.

Three sponsorship slots of 30-70 seconds each (125-150 words) are available per episode. Your message, recorded at our studio, will reach an expanded audience of engaged listeners.

We offer a number of cost-effective options, including pre-roll, mid-roll, and exclusive sponsorships.

Sponsorship slots of 30–70 seconds (125–150 words) each are available.
